2. Information from Reed Wellbeing will be shared back to their registered General Practice and Prescribing Organisation in a secure manner.

5. If the patient does not engage with the behavioural support, providers are required to inform the relevant healthcare professionals. This should prompt a clinically led discussion with the patient about the appropriateness of continuing treatment by the prescriber.
6. If a patient has lost less than 5% of their initial weight after 6 months on the highest tolerated dose, the risks of treatment are likely to outweigh any benefits. Take into account how well the patient engaged with the lifestyle measures previously and their willingness to engage on this occasion.
